Styrofoam latest target on Bloomberg's ban list

► Sanitation wants a ban on the eco-unfriendly material ► Would be next up on Bloomberg's chopping block ► The mayor says that he's 'willing to take a look'

Smoking, soda, Styrofoam.

The eco-unfriendly material found in takeout containers and party cups might be next on the shortlist to get slashed by the city.

One month before a ban on sugary drinks larger than 16 ounces takes effect, the city may have found its next target.

A sanitation official told reporters that the department will propose banning Styrofoam.

John McCarthy, a spokesman for Mayor Michael Bloomberg, told Metro, "We are always willing to take a look at new ways to reduce waste that can't be recycled or reused."

Bloomberg has in the past banned smoking in restaurants and parks, and he pushed for the soda ban, which begins in March.

Right now, the city refuses to recycle Styrofoam — officials say it is too difficult.

But it can be found

► The Department of Sanitation plans to propose a ban on Styrofoam, according to city officials.

Schooled

One place Styrofoam can be found daily? Public schools, where students use Styrofoam trays. Styrofoam Out of Schools, a group of parents and teachers, has long tried to replace the trays with more eco-friendly options.

In 2010, the city launched "Trayless Tuesdays," using paper containers that day instead of the 830,000 Styrofoam trays the city estimates are tossed every day.

.5

The city estimates that paper foam makes up .5 percent of the city's trash.

80

Paper foam can take up to 80 years to break down, according to the EPA.

everywhere, from garbage cans to Brooklyn's toxic Gowanus Canal.

The council has previously considered legislation that would ask restaurants not to use Styrofoam. A Sanitation Department spokeswoman would not elaborate on whether the ban plan would stick to restaurants.

Scott Stringer announces East River Park plan

EAST RIVER. Manhattan Borough President Scott Stringer used his final State of the Borough address Thursday night to showcase his plan for the Manhattan East River waterfront, involving both new fortifications and barriers to prevent flooding in another storm on the scale of last year's superstorm Sandy, as well as a park allowing pedestrians waterfront access. Stringer said the plan was initiated in 2010, before Sandy ravaged the east Manhattan coastline, knocking out a major power station on East 14th Street. Assemblyman Brian Kavanagh partnered with Stringer in developing the project, along with Manhattan community boards 3 and 6, the Lower East Side Ecology Center and various design teams, community organizations and elected officials. The Office of the Borough President is allocating $3.5 million to the East River Blueway Project. Additional funding will come from a New York State Department of State grant. ● METRO/AB

Subway deaths focus of hearing

Increasing awareness of subway platform safety and adding help buttons for transit workers in subways were two of the MTA's suggestions to combat a recent spate of subway deaths. The recommendations were announced at a special hearing on subway safety held Thursday at City Hall.

In light of a series of deaths and accidents in the subway system that have happened recently, James Vacca, the city's Committee on Transportation chair, hosted the emergency meeting on subway safety.

At the hearing, the MTA announced plans to increase advertisements and public service announcements telling passengers to stay away from the platform edge. A help-button system to notify transit workers of emergencies will also be ready by the end of 2014.

ASPCA rescues 50 felines from Brooklyn hoarders

BROOKLYN. The ASPCA Cruelty Intervention Advocacy team had been monitoring what they called a “cat hoarding” situation in Brooklyn, and grew alarmed as superstorm Sandy seemed to increase the peril facing some 50 cats living in one Brooklyn apartment.

On Nov. 15, the team went in and removed all 50 cats, on the grounds that while the owners spent “much of their time” caring for the cats, they could not keep up with the spay/neuter and other needs of so many animals, making proper care impossible. One Love Animal Hospital at 317 Atlantic Ave. between Smith and

Hoyt streets provided boarding and medical care, and 30 of the cats are now ready to be adopted. The remaining 20 have either already been adopted or were given to partner agencies who are handling their adoptions.

One Love will hold an event this weekend, Feb. 9 and 10, from noon to 5 p.m. Adoption specialists will be available to help match owners to cats based on temperament and personality. All cats will be spayed or neutered, micro-chipped and vaccinated free of charge, as well as provided with a free ID tag.

Adopters must be 21 years of age or older, have a government-issued ID, proof of address and info for a personal reference.

News in brief

Fatal crash injures babies

Yesterday at West 135th Street, a Ford van driving north on Broadway rammed into a Ford Focus making a left turn. Both cars slammed into a 44-year-old woman.

The Ford Focus was carrying two infants in the backseat. Police reported the pedestrian had non-life-threatening injuries. The driver of the Focus and infants also had non-life-threatening injuries. The woman in the passenger seat, Lisette Ventura, 46, was dead on arrival. The van driver, 36-year-old Wislairs Mentors, was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license. ● METRO/DT

‘Stop and frisk’ gets an app

The New York Civil Liberties Union released an iPhone app that allows civilians to monitor and record “stop and frisk” incidents. The app has three components: It allows users to film stop-and-frisk incidents with audio, provides an alert when stops are occurring nearby, and provides a form that can be filled out with the details of the stop, with or without the video. The video and form are automatically sent to the NYCLU, and every report is reviewed by NYCLU staff.

The Android version, released last June, has been downloaded by 20,000 New Yorkers, the NYCLU said. ● METRO/DT

Advice

JONATHAN MANN

INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT FOR CNN

letters@metro.us

How fat is too fat to lead America? Will there be an oval occupant for the Oval Office? New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie, America's most famously obese elected official, brought a doughnut in his suit pocket to a TV appearance this week to make light of his weight.

I'm basically the healthiest fat guy you've ever seen in your life," he said. Christie's size is an issue because America's current (slim) president is beginning his second term and is constitutionally barred from a third.

Would-be candidates would be wise to begin preparing.

Christie has a remarkably successful political profile; the problem is his girth. He's never said how much he weighs, but guesses tend to exceed 300 pounds, making his health a real concern.

"It's almost like a time bomb that's waiting to go off," said former White House physician Connie Mariano.

Christie is discounting any talk of planning a presidential campaign because the 2016 election is still so far off. He says he has plenty of time to prepare. He has time to shed a few pounds, too.

Win a chance to meet Justin Bieber

UNIVERSAL MUSIC

► Metro readers will have a chance to win a date with Justin Bieber.

Quoted: From the publisher

"The Metro Love Issue will be the hottest newspaper in the world. The Metro team is beyond excited — for our readers, editors, distributors and our advertisers."

PUBLISHER AND CEO YGGERS MORTENSEN

Metro, the world's largest newspaper, celebrates Valentine's Day this year by giving one lucky reader the chance to meet Justin Bieber. The prize includes concert tickets and backstage passes for one of Bieber's European shows on his "Believe" tour.

On Feb. 14, Metro will produce its annual Love Issue, where readers get their first chance to enter to meet the superstar.

The Love Issue will feature an exclusive Q&A with Bieber, a playlist of his favorite love songs, the art of the love letter; a romance guide and more.

The Love Issue will kick off the contest, with the winner announced March 4. ● METRO

How to enter

Here's how Metro readers can enter:

- 1 Readers photograph themselves with the Metro Love Issue in a place they'd take Bieber on a date.
- 2 They upload the photo to Metro's Facebook "I BELIEBE IN LOVE" app.

Entrants choose the Metro Facebook page of the city closest to them ("Metro Boston," "Metro New York" or "Metro Philly"). The app will be a featured tab on each city's page.

- 3 Entrants solicit votes for their photo by generating "likes." The more "likes" a photo gets, the better the chances of being selected as a winner! Contest entrants can gather more votes via Twitter using the hashtag #belibeinLove and the handles of each Metro US city (@metronewyork, @MetroBOS and @MetroPhilly).

- 4 The winner's experience will be covered globally in Metro.

GRAMMY PREVIEW

The Grammys are not always easy to predict. Sometimes the National Academy of Recording Arts and Science gets it right, like with Adele sweeping all six categories she was nominated in last year, including the "Big Three" (Record of the Year, Song of the Year and Album of the Year). But sometimes the Academy gets it horribly wrong. We still can't figure out how Herbie Hancock won Album of the Year in 2008. There is one opportunity for a "Big Three" sweep with fun, being nominated in the major categories, as well as Best New Artist, but we just don't see them joining the ranks of Adele, Dixie Chicks (2007), Norah Jones (2003) and only a half-dozen others. Here's why.

Pat Healy
pat.healy@metro.us

What it means

This is really the biggest Grammy, and people sometimes get confused because of those 12-inch vinyl things that are also called records. This award honors the actual performance, the studio production and that certain X-factor that makes a song a defining snippet of sound for that year, or you know, a record.

The nominees

► Will Gotye have his friends collect his Record of the Year award?

- The Black Keys "Lonely Boy"
- Kelly Clarkson "Stronger (What Doesn't Kill You)"
- Fun. featuring Janelle Monae "We Are Young"
- Gotye featuring Kimbra

- "Somebody That I Used To Know"
- Frank Ocean "Thinkin Bout You"
- Taylor Swift "We Are Never Ever Getting Back Together"

Who will win

This was a big year for the Black Keys, and the Academy has been kind to the Ohio duo before, but more for categories like Best Alternative Music Album or Best Rock Performance. Does "Lonely Boy" say 2012 the way that "Beat It" said 1984? Not quite. Our money is on Gotye, though "Somebody That I Used To Know" says 1985 more than 2012. But this is the Academy we're dealing with.

Who should win

We're going with the fun. song here. While the intro is a little too Broadway for our liking, that chorus really is a perfect audio snapshot of 2012, isn't it?

For more about what the members of fun., pictured, think about the Grammys, turn to page 12.

Token nomination

After Taylor Swift got "Kanyed" at the 2009 MTV Video Music Awards, she received a lifetime guarantee of being nominated for something at every awards show every year she releases new music. This is speculation, but "We Are Never Getting Back Together" is too light to win an award where past winners are "Bridge Over Troubled Water" and "I Will Always Love You."

This award is for the songwriter, so if Kelly Clarkson's tune wins, she doesn't actually win, because she didn't have a hand in composing "Stronger." All other artists in this category wrote their respective songs.

Clarkson

- Ed Sheeran "The A Team"
- Miguel "Adorn"
- Carly Rae Jepsen "Call Me Maybe"
- Kelly Clarkson "Stronger (What Doesn't Kill You)"
- Fun. featuring Janelle Monae "We Are Young"

► Miguel

This is the one that fun. actually will win, and when they skip up to the podium to collect their award, that chorus will sound great blasting over the speakers.

You read the nominees, and "Call Me Maybe," is totally in your head! Not bad, right? Think about how long it took you to get sick of it. Not until at least the ninth B-grade YouTube parody. That is quality songwriting: catchy without pissing you off!

Will "Call Me Maybe" win song of the year? Tune in to the Grammys on Sunday at 8 p.m. on CBS to find out.

Ed Sheeran? What billionaire decided this acoustic kid is important all of a sudden? And how much did said billionaire have to shell out to allow the Olympics to have him front Pink Floyd for "Wish You Were Here"?

Sheeran

Ah, the album, that rare perfect collection of songs. It's only getting closer to extinction as we get further away from the analog age.

- The Black Keys "El Camino"
- Fun. "Some Nights"
- Mumford & Sons "Babel"
- Frank Ocean "channel ORANGE"
- Jack White "Blunderbuss"

The Black Keys did all right for themselves at the 2011 Grammys.

Like we've already established, the Academy has a soft spot for the Black Keys. This is their big one this year.

Frank Ocean topped every critical best-of list this year and the guy is almost single-handedly pushing R&B into the future. And "channel ORANGE" is a great listen from start to finish.

The nominees in this category are hard to argue with, but what's easy to argue with is that the ladies were snubbed! Where's Taylor

Swift's "Red"? While the Grammys are not a popularity contest, "Red" was the second biggest-selling album of 2012, behind only another lady, Adele, who happened to do pretty well for herself at the Grammys last year.

Sunday will be a fun. night at the Grammys

► They are young and their 2012 single set the world on fire ► They're also pumped to play the show they used to watch as little kids

Jack Antonoff isn't exactly a stranger to attention. The New Jersey-raised musician found some success with his band Steel Train and — let's gossip a little — he once dated high school classmate Scarlett Johansson. But last year, the explosion of "Some Nights," the album by his "other" band, fun., netted an astounding six Grammy nominations and an invitation to play the awards.

"Performing, that's just the icing on the cake. My favorite thing to do growing up was to watch the performances on the Grammys," says Antonoff.

The song that catapulted fun. — which also includes Andrew Dost and Nate Ruess — to global fame was "We Are Young." The brooding pop anthem also garnered some famous fans, including Beyoncé.

"It feels amazing to be recognized by fellow artists that you appreciate," says Antonoff. "It's like a circle of inspiration that goes around. To imagine that someone who inspired us to make music is also listening to our music is an incredible moment. All the people we've gotten to meet this last year, it makes you feel a bit more connected to music."

And connecting is important for Antonoff.

"The truth is that it can be lonely out there making music," the 28-year-old says. "There are more and more people that do it, and the more that we can talk to bands and artists of this generation the more comfortable we feel in our skins with what we do."

Linda Laban
linda.laban@metro.us

► Antonoff, far right, says to be able to perform on Sunday is just the icing on the cake.

Fun. little tricks

Antonoff says that making music isn't all, um, fun and games: "There are downsides to everything. Sometimes when you love something and are passionate about it, it really has the power to drag you down. I almost died when we were making our album because I was working every day in the studio, not eating, flying all over the country doing shows. There's a lot of reality to what we do. But as you get older or you reach a different level, you learn so much, you learn little tricks to get by."

The Affable Jason Schwartzman

► One of the stars of 'A Glimpse Inside the Mind of Charles Swan III' is happy to chat about the film — or shoes, or really anything you're into

Jason Schwartzman's Doc Martins are in bad shape. "In fact, they have holes in the bottoms of them," he says, staring down at the scuffed shoes. "Is shoe polish just basically painting your shoes? These are the kinds of questions you just shouldn't ask out loud."

A conversation with Schwartzman can go on like this for a very long time. This guy is great for a chat, and we're happy to chew the fat. But he did just co-star with Charlie Sheen, who plays the titular character in Schwartzman's new film, "A Glimpse Inside the Mind of Charles Swan III" — a famous graphic designer whose boozing and womanizing leads him to trouble.

So shoe care aside, we had to ask: was Schwartzman ever offered some tiger blood on set?

"No, I wasn't offered any of that. It never came up. Maybe I don't exude that type of thirst," he says dismissively, before enthusing about the troubled actor whose private life has of recent years eclipsed the attention given to his acting work.

"When you talk to him, he talks in the most incredible way — just sort of poetic and goes on these tangents that are incredible and beautiful," Schwartzman says. "He's so bright and he's really inspiring to be around. He's a great actor. A.

"A Glimpse Inside the Mind of Charles Swan III" is in theaters Friday.

A new citizen of Pawnee

Jason Schwartzman will be appearing in the district run by Leslie Knope (Amy Poehler) in an upcoming episode of NBC's "Parks and Recreation."

"It was the best. I'm such a fan of that show and when I found out that I was going to be on it, I could not believe it. ... You walk onto that set and it's everything you want it to be."

GETTY IMAGES

"When you talk to him, he talks in the most incredible way — just sort of poetic and goes on these tangents that are incredible and beautiful."

SCHWARTZMAN, ON SHEEN

You're just talented. But B. You also have whatever you're born with. His vocal chords and his face, the whole package is just enthralling."

We'll take your word for it there, Mr. Schwartzman.

I MAGINE a theatrical experience so profound, so inspiring, it touches your soul. Let Shen Yun take you on a journey through 5,000 years of divinely-inspired culture: A journey where the virtues of ancient China, the world's finest dancers, a unique East-West orchestra, and dazzling animated backdrops converge in one spectacular performance.

Shen Yun cannot be seen in China today, where traditional culture has been mostly destroyed under communist rule. Yet, Shen Yun has become a global cultural sensation, bringing the virtues and wisdom of traditional Chinese culture to millions of people across four continents.

"It was an extraordinary experience... the level of skill, but also the power of the archetypes and the narratives were startling. It was exquisitely beautiful."

— Cate Blanchett, Academy Award-winning actress

"It's superb. I am going to mention it on the news, because I think it is a great performance and people should see it."

BATEMAN'S HAPPILY ARRESTED DEVELOPMENT

► "Identity Thief" hits theaters Friday.

► The star explains why he doesn't mind playing the straight man and insists that his manhood is not mangled (we'll explain everything)

Being the straight man in a comedy can be a thankless job, but Jason Bateman has no problem with that. His latest, "Identity Thief," finds him taking on Melissa McCarthy's con woman. Plus, this spring he gets to reprise his best-loved straight man role as put-upon Michael Bluth in "Arrested Development" when the cult hit returns with new episodes on Netflix.

Still, if you've got a more outlandish comedy role in mind, he's willing to listen.

Do you find it at all insulting to be asked how hard it is to keep a straight face opposite someone like Melissa McCarthy?

No, actually, I've never taken it that way. That's tough to do, and I fail miserably at it repeatedly, especially with Melissa.

Was it Melissa or writer Craig Mazin who kept adding in jokes about you having mangled junk in "Identity Thief"?

Well, Craig's pretty filthy. Craig wrote a script that didn't need any ad-libbing whatsoever to make it fun-

Q&A

You've made quite a career of playing the straight man, but have you been looking for parts beyond that type?

Yeah, I mean, I would enjoy doing that. Send them. I'll read them and do them. But I get most of my opportunities doing what people have seen me do before, and I don't think that's too dissimilar from most actors. You kind of get offered what people expect to see you in. So it's up to me to start to steer the ship in another direction if I want some changes. And I do, every once in a while.

ny, and so we didn't do a lot of that. ... Craig Mazin did a really, really good job. So he's the one obsessed with you having messed-up junk?

He loves my junk. Or he loves my messed-up junk. He wants bad things to happen to it because I won't give it to him.

Q&A

Are you the only Bluth family member to appear in every new episode of "Arrested Development"?

► I believe that is true. I haven't seen them, he's still editing them, but that was the goal when Mitch [Hurwitz] and I talked about these episodes early on.

Any word on returning guest stars?

► I think Mitch has already said that a few people are coming back. I think he's mentioned Carl Weathers and Henry Winkler and ... who else did he mention? James Lipton and Andy Richter. There's many more. And then his ideas for the movie are just insane. So hopefully Act II and Act III will happen, which is the movie. I can't wait to see what he does with all this footage.

Now in theaters

'Identity thief'

Grade: A-

There is suspension of disbelief and then there's stretching the limits of believability. And then there is "Identity Thief." Movies don't have to make perfect sense. But the plot twists here simply don't work. For one thing, simply canceling the stolen credit cards lacks comedic possibilities, but it would have been the right thing to do and it would have spared us this mostly unfunny "comedy."

'Side Effects'

Grade: B+

If this is in fact to be Steven Soderbergh's final film as a director released in theaters, he's going out on a pretty good note. The twisty, intrigue-filled plot — which we can't go into too much detail about because spoilers abound — has an engaging neo-Hitchcock vibe. The real highlight here is the engaging and electric Jude Law. ● NED EHRBAR

5 Things to expect from Jenny McCarthy's new late-night show

- ▶ The sexy star is bringing her no-filter attitude to late-night
- ▶ What's in store — and why she's not a Chelsea Handler clone

Outspoken celebs

"We don't have pre-interviews, so I make it really candid for the celebs to come on and just hang out for a half hour. I ask some pretty some insane questions. It kinda takes you on a wild ride."

Actual conversation

"I try to have a back-and-forth kind of a thing instead of a question-and-answer. [I go] into a little tidbit story about myself, just to kind of bring in a conversation, and then slide in, like, 'Oh, what about you? Did that ever happen to you?' Just to make it seem like there is a back-and-forth kind of tennis game."

Man-on-the-ground interviews (literally)

"I do this kind of signature thing which I call my 'groundbreaking interview.' I drag one of [the guests] down and we lay on a shag carpet and suck lollipops and we're literally just having conversation. It's the most delicious part of the show for me because celebrities really open up when you're not sitting in an interview-type format — we're just hanging out. I never have a problem, obviously, revealing too much, but a lot of people still hold back, and this really does give me a platform to open them up a little bit."

Unlikely duos

"I want to make sure everyone's really oddballs together — there's just something so fascinating about that. So [on our premiere] we've got Joseline Hernandez from 'Love & Hip Hop' — she is this wild-ass chick on the show so I love the riskiness of that — and I put her with Josh Groban."

"The Jenny McCarthy Show" premieres Friday, Feb. 8, at 10:30 p.m. on VH1.

Who she's not

▶ Chelsea Handler

"The ways we are similar is that we're female and that we're very honest, but our sense of humor and our styles are a lot different. I'm a little bit more like goofy, Monty Python, and she's more sarcastic and dry. I think you'll really see a difference."

▶ Oprah

"I don't think anyone could ever try to even be close to Oprah. I just want to be me. If I try to be anything else, I lose. In [this] generation, everyone demands authenticity, and this is a smart audience: They can smell bulls — a mile away. You need to be your authentic self in order to be a success."

Naughty language

"I swear my ass off, but [you'll just hear] the 'beep, beep, beep.'"

Playdates for Valentine's Day

► Celebrate your love with a date night that's likely to inspire a standing ovation ► Our picks

Valentine's Day is just around the corner. If you don't have presents or plans lined up yet, never fear. It's not too late to orchestrate the quintessential New York City date night: an amazing night of theater (pair your tickets with dinner, drinks and/or dessert for best results). But with so many choices on and off the Great White Way, how can you decide where to take your significant other this Thursday? Here are some options for every type of romantic.

The confident choice

'Picnic'

No matter who you are, it takes a lot of courage to bring your date to a play where Sebastian Stan spends half the time onstage shirtless and gleaning with sweat. Here he plays a down-on-his-luck drifter who falls for a small town's most prized bachelorette. This non-musical Broadway play offers an engaging storyline about completely impractical love. We won't tell you how that seemingly doomed affair turns out, but we will guarantee that you'll earn major points for being bold enough to stare at Stan while sitting next to your SO. ## The committed pick

'Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?'

This production showcases theater's most dysfunctional husband and wife as they bait a newly married duo over a long night of cocktails — all in the name of pushing their rutted relationship to the next level. Despite the epic levels of gamesmanship to which this particular pair have taken their matrimony, the play's still recognizably romantic in a way that many longtime lovers will understand. ## The introductory date

'The Mystery of Edwin Drood'

Isn't it great at the start of a relationship, when there's still a lot of, well, mystery? If you're getting to know someone new, a musical comedy will let you relax and laugh together. With audience participation and surprise endings that change every night, there's plenty within this convoluted plot for you to talk about. And regardless of the twists and turns this choose-your-own-adventure might take, rest assured that every performance is going to end in a love song. www.roundabouttheatre.org

The safe bet

'Once'

"Once" is likely to hit the mark for even the hard-to-please theatergoer. Romantic and haunting, the story follows musicians who realize they each bring out just what the other needs most. If all else fails, there's a bar right onstage so you can grab a glass of wine to smooth over any misgivings. But in our opinion, if your date doesn't like "Once," you should probably just reconsider the relationship. This is also one where it might be hard to score tickets — but if you can, you really can't go wrong. www.oncemusical.com

Lohan actually likes her family?

Despite her ongoing legal troubles and reports of her being difficult to work with, Lindsay Lohan insists she's keeping calm and carrying on. So what's her secret? "Family," she tells E! News. "You can't get through anything without the family. Family is everything." Lohan, it should be noted, has had public meltdowns with her mom, Dina Lohan, in recent months, and her dad, Michael Lohan, has been pushing on numerous occasions for intervention and rehab for his daughter.

Talking points

Willis doesn't blame the cinema

Bruce Willis, star of many bullet-ridden films, thinks it's a mistake to try to link violence in entertainment with real-life shootings like the recent incidents in Aurora, Colo., and Newtown, Conn. "No one commits a crime because they saw a film. There's nothing to support that," Willis tells the Associated Press. "We're not making movies about people that have gone berserk or gone nuts. Those kind of movies wouldn't last very long at all." Furthermore, Willis isn't a fan of more gun control legislation. "I think that you can't start to pick apart anything out of the Bill of Rights without thinking, that it's all going to become undone," he says. "If you take one out or change one law, then why wouldn't they take all your rights away from you?"

'Millionaire' co-stars plan low-key V-Day

"Slumdog Millionaire" co-stars Dev Patel and Freida Pinto, who have been dating for four years, don't have anything special planned for Valentine's Day this year — or any year — they tell Us Weekly. "I actually am not a big Valentine's Day supporter," Pinto says. "I don't really celebrate it." That leaves the perfect opening for Patel to prove what a great boyfriend he is: "Every day should be a celebration of love," he says. Top that, gentlemen.

Beckham digs the color pink

David Beckham has been spotted on the field lately sporting a pair of pink sneakers, which got the attention of a few fans. During a Twitter chat for clothing retailer H&M, the soccer star acknowledged his love for the interesting footwear choice when a fan asked which sneakers were his favorite. "That would have to be my current Adidas boots," Beckham replied. "They are pink, which I chose because of [baby daughter] Harper." Beckham also revealed that he expects his family will be spending a "huge amount of time in the U.S. in the future" despite a recent move back to England.

1: Debra Fraser-Howze (right) of OraSure Technologies presented a donation to Alicia Keys for her Keep a Child Alive Foundation. The donation was made in recognition of National Black HIV/AIDS Awareness Day and OraSure's sponsorship of an Alicia Keys concert Tuesday in NYC.

2: Nice shoes, Becks! David Beckham kicked around in his pink trainers in London yesterday.

3: Bonjour, Anne Hathaway!

The most famous former resident of Millburn, N.J., tried to stay dry in Paris yesterday.

4: Zhang Ziyi of "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon" fame popped up with some lovely blooms in Berlin yesterday.

Metro exclusive: BCBG's Lubov Azria on her Fall '13 collection

BCBG's Lubov Azria on the hodgepodge of inspirations that made up the Fall 2013 collection:

"Last September I had the pleasure to visit Istanbul, and I was so taken by the interior design, the Blue Mosque, the architecture and history. I took tons of pictures. I'm originally from Ukraine, but I've never seen anything like it. So we started with that. We were also inspired by Phil Frost — he's a contemporary artist. What we loved about him is the way he layered texture. He would have a white paint — almost graffiti-like artwork — layered on top of old graphics that were absolutely breathtaking. We used that as a new way of doing prints. And then, when I was in Europe, I

Lubov Azria says she was inspired by Istanbul architecture, artist Phil Frost and gypsies.

Review

BCBG

It can't be easy being the first show to kick off fashion week. When I spoke to Lubov Azria yesterday, she said she actually prefers it. "No one has any expectations — they just want to see new, exciting things," said the designer, then adding, "but then on the other side, people can forget about you three days after."

She doesn't have to worry. To thumping Middle Eastern beats, BCBG's Fall show seduced with long, sinuous silhouettes, patchwork prints in navy and ivory and a mix of lace with leather. The true standouts, however, were the tough, edgy coats. I would wear all of them exactly as they were styled: with cool, cashmere beanies.

Horoscope

♊ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. From time to time, you could be showered with more material opportunities than usual. Be both alert and receptive to any new ideas that come along.
♋ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. This might be one of those days when it's OK to toot your own horn to attract support for a fresh idea. Blow your bugle loud and clear.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. This could be a good day to enhance your financial where-withal. If you know of anything you can do that would open such doors, do it now.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Most of your associates had better step aside when they see you coming, because once you get on a roll, there will be no stopping you — regardless of what's in your way.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. You will have no trouble accomplishing whatever you set your mind to. Obstacles will melt away in the face of your energetic momentum. Enjoy the ride.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Putting yourself out for others without hesitation will make you feel good, mostly because you won't make those people feel obligated to you in the process.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Don't hesitate to elevate your sights when establishing your objectives. All you have to do to perform some remarkable feats is believe in yourself to the fullest.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. If there is an important agreement that you need to negotiate, you're likely to find this to be an excellent day to do so.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. You stand a good chance of coming to a quick understanding.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Because your modus operandi is exceptionally efficient, you won't waste any time performing your assignments, particularly those that involve a joint interest.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Many times, two heads are better than one. This is likely to be one of those days when your efforts could be doubly effective, all because of another's aid.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Because you unselfishly desire to help another, your efforts could bear large fruit. As a result, you could receive some extra rewards that you didn't seek.

♊ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Someone you recently met is very anxious to get together to discuss a matter that he or she believes could be of interest. A meeting might be planned.

Shoveling is snow reason for bad manners

I think we as a community should try something new with this coming storm. When shoveling your cars, how about instead of making a huge pile in front of the car and in back of the car, burn a few extra calories and dump the snow in the yard of the house you're parked in front of. This clears up room in the street for parking — and then you won't have to fight about "my parking spot." Because the streets are public, and snow piles in the street, when added up, take up at least 10 spots that could be used.

Make overreaching government pay

RE: "YALE, UNIV. OF PENN SUE FORMER STUDENTS AFTER LOANS TO POOR STUDENTS DEFAULT" (METRO, FEB. 6) Those "needy U.S. borrowers" of federal student loans earmarked for the poor who are sued by universities for nonpayment have a ready defense in the U.S. Constitution. But before I continue, I need to be certain that everyone is on the "same page" regarding the Constitution. The Constitution is the "Supreme Law of the Land." Surprisingly, it is not directed at "we, the people," but at the government. Thus, Article 1, Section 8 is the part that enumerates or specifies one by one what "Congress shall have power" to do. Clause 2 gives Congress the power "to borrow money on the credit of the United States." But nowhere is the Congress or the president given the power to LEND money. And Congress and the president can have the power to do something ONLY if the Constitution specifically enumerates that power. A fundamental principle of Constitutional law maintains that anything "repugnant to the Constitution is null and void." Thus, when the Congress lends money to ANYONE, whether it's General Motors, Solyndra or "needy" college students, these loans are "repugnant" to the constitution, or "unconstitutional," and are therefore null and void. And the borrowers cannot be liable for repayment. So when universities sue needy students for repayment of "federal Perkins loans," those needy student merely have to tell the judge that they don't have to repay since they are unconstitutional and are therefore "null and void" at the get-go. Next case!

Islanders trade for goalie Thomas

Tim Thomas is a New York Islander. When he plays is anybody's guess.

The Islanders acquired Thomas from the Boston Bruins late Thursday afternoon in exchange for a conditional second-round draft pick in 2014 or 2015. He has a career 196-121-45 record with a 2.48 goals against average and .921 save percentage in 378 regular season games.

"We traded for an asset, and it gives us some

1.98 Goals against average for Thomas in the 2011 playoffs, when the Bruins won the Stanley Cup flexibility moving forward," Islanders general manager Garth Snow said prior to last night's game against the Rangers at the Garden. "Tim is obviously a world-class goaltender with a great résumé."

Snow added that the trade was something he and Bruins general manager Peter Chiarelli "talked about at length."

Who's next to go? Giants have already cut three veteran players But if they are going to re-sign stars, New York will have to cut more salary

The Giants wasted no time in getting down to business this offseason.

Just two days after the Super Bowl, they cut veteran linebacker Michael Boley and followed that up a day later with star Ahmad Bradshaw and Chris Canty.

The team has many free agents though, including Victor Cruz, Will Beatty and Kenny Phillips. Metro looks at who else should be cut sooner rather than later:

► RT David Diehl

Why: Diehl, 33, has spent his entire 10-year career with the Giants. In seven of them he has started 16 games. But last year he played in 13 and started just 10, as he was moved to right tackle. The team needs to sign Beatty and can't waste money on a veteran who is a backup at this point.

► CB Terrell Thomas

Why: Thomas hasn't played in two years, with serious knee injuries. Thomas has a salary bonus of $6 million due in March, so it's hard to see them keeping a player who has barely played under such a large deal.

► CB Corey Webster

Why: Unlike Thomas, Webster has played and played well over his eight-year career, all spent in blue. He played well enough to earn a five-year, $43 million deal in 2008. But with only one year left, cutting him this off-season would save the team $7.25 million on their cap. That's big money saved. MARK OSBORNE

Who stays?

The Giants have to weigh who they can cut with who they are going to compete with going forward.

So who should the team keep going into next season?

► S Antrel Rolle

Why: Rolle is not the player he was when the Giants signed him to a five-year, $37 million deal in 2010. He has two years remaining, though exactly how much money is left is unclear after he restructured the deal in 2011. It's more than $6 million, though, which is a lot for a 30-year-old safety. Yet, as the unquestioned leader of the defense, he needs to return in 2013.

► DT Justin Tuck

Why: Speaking of defensive leaders, Tuck is also a player who could be axed. Tuck's base salary is $4.5 million (so his cap number is higher), but the defensive lineman hasn't had much impact recently. He only has nine combined sacks since 11.5 in 2010, but the team needs bodies on the line.

MLB in brief

Mets sign Lyon to one-year deal

METS. It's not as exciting as Michael Bourn, but the Mets did come to an agreement with a free agent Thursday morning.

According to CBS Sports, the team has come to a one-year agreement with relief pitcher Brandon Lyon. It is still pending a physical. Lyon, 33, has spent time variably between closing and in a set-up role for five different teams.

► Lyon has made at least 60 appearances in six of the last seven seasons. He was injured in 2011.

Lyon pitched well as a set-up man for both Houston and Toronto last season. Between the two teams, he had a 3.88 ERA and 63 strikeouts in 61 innings pitched. Lyon had 26 saves with the Diamondbacks in 2008 and 20 saves with the Astros in 2010. He has a career ERA of 4.14, but it's 3.59 over the past six seasons with a 2-to-1 strikeout-to-walk ratio over that time.

Lyon will likely serve as a set-up man for Frank Francisco, who manager Terry Collins confirmed Wednesday will begin the season as closer. METRO

Cervelli will discuss Bosch in days to come

YANKEES. Catcher Francisco Cervelli has yet to speak with reporters about appearing on the list of names connected to performance-enhancing drug dealer Anthony Bosch, but says he will comment on the situation next week, once spring training officially opens.

Cervelli, who will be competing for the starting job in camp, released a statement on Tuesday saying he had consulted Bosch about a foot injury and had only purchased legal supplements from the doctor.

Gregg Williams reinstated, joins Titans

It didn't take long for Gregg Williams to find work after his season-long suspension by the NFL. The no-longer-blackballed defensive coordinator was hired as an assistant by the Titans immediately after being reinstated by commissioner Roger Goodell. Williams was suspended indefinitely by the league for running a bounty program as a coach with the Saints. METRO

Hernandez signs deal with M's

Yankee fans can once and for all put to rest any hopes of trading to Felix Hernandez.

The 2010 AL Cy Young winner signed a seven-year, $175 million extension on Thursday. The deal makes Hernandez the highest-paid pitcher in MLB history.

Hernandez would not have been a free agent until after the 2014 season, but trades had been rumored for years.
